

Using Picture Books to Enhance Communication Skills for Students who use AAC

May 27, 2026
7:00-8:00 p.m. EDT

PRESENTED BY:
Jane L. Gebers and Betsy Caporale

ABOUT THE PRESENTERS:

Jane L Gebers, M.A., SLP has been a practicing speech-language pathologist for over 50 years, working primarily with the pediatric population. Her first book, Books Are for Talking, Too! A Sourcebook for Using Children's Literature in Speech-Language Remediation, was published in 1990. As research expanded and continued to validate the uses of children's literature in speech, language, and literacy, she authored three updated editions. She has been an adjunct professor at St. Mary's College Moraga, where she taught courses in Language Development, Assessment and Intervention, and a visiting lecturer and presenter at other Bay Area colleges. She has a private practice in Northern California and continues to update her website page, Book Talk, where she provides a lesson plan with a Picture Book Selection of the Month. This page provides viewers with multiple possibilities to support children's literacy and communication skills using a popular, low-text picture book.

Betsy Caporale, M.S., CCC-SLP has worked in the field of AAC/AT for over 30 years. She earned her Competency Certificate in Communication Assistive Technology Applications from The National Association of State Directors of Special Education and an Assistive Technology Specialty Certificate in Communication Services from the University of South Florida. While working for the California Department of Education she developed and taught an AAC Assessment and Services Certification Course, certifying over 200 SLPs in educational settings. Betsy is the owner of Augmentative Communication Solutions, LLC, which supports students with complex communication and learning needs in school districts throughout California. She currently serves as the Director of Professional Affairs for USSAAC.

SEMINAR DESCRIPTION: Picture books are an excellent tool for promoting interaction and facilitating communication, particularly for individuals who use Augmentative and Alternative Communication (AAC). This session will focus on using classic picture books to enhance communication and literacy skills for students with complex communication needs, incorporating the use of AAC tools and strategies to target key areas such as phonological awareness, vocabulary development, sentence formulation, problem-solving, and pragmatic language. During the webinar, presenters will demonstrate joint reading techniques with AAC users across various ages and skill levels. Practical resources to guide in the implementation of these strategies will be provided and research supporting the use of picture books to develop communication skills will be shared.
